The friends of Mrs. Henry Bicknell, and all others interested, are cordially invited to an informal talk by Mr. A. K. Virgil at Mrs. Bicknell's studio, 79 Kukui street, shortly after the arrival of the Aorangi, due Saturday morning, December 14th. Mr. Virgil is accompanied by Mrs. Virgil, who is an accomplished pianist, and will demonstrate during Mr. Virgil's talk.

Mr. Virgil is considered the world's greatest teacher of piano technique. He is the inventor of the Virgil clavier, and has given his life to the study of piano technique in its broadest sense. He has systematized technique, something which has never before been accomplished, and takes the student, step by step, from first principles to the highest point of artistic playing.

Full information will be posted on the bulletin boards at Wall, Nichols and The Territorial Messenger Service, immediately after the arrival of the Aorangi.

Among the weddings of the week was that of Miss Caroline Edna Miller, daughter of Captain and Mrs. Frederick C. Miller, to Mr. James J. Crockett.

which was solemnized Thursday evening at St. Andrew's cathedral. The bride's gown was white figured crepe de chine over taffeta silk, trimmed with chiffon and lace. The bridal veil was caught with orange blossoms. The bridesmaid was Miss Irene Aiken of Maui who wore pink embroidered mull and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. Mr. F. Crockett, brother of the groom was the best man. Mr. and Mrs. Crockett will be at home after January 1, on Makiki street.

Mrs. Walter Weedon, who is in the east, recently gave a talk on Hawaii which was the principal feature of the program at a meeting of the Euclid Avenue Christian church in Cleveland, Ohio.

A letter from Miss Marie von Holt received by the last mail says she will be for some time with her brother, the Rev. Aeneas R. Mackintosh, near Manchester, England, where he is doing a splendid work.

The regular Alameda dance at the Hawaiian Hotel which would ordinarily be given Friday evening, December 13, will this week be given on the evening of Saturday, December 14, on account of the return by the Kinau of the coast players from Hilo. Thereafter the Alameda dances will be as usual on the evening of the arrival of the Alameda.

Miss Margaret Hyde-Smith, who spent the summer in Honolulu as the guest of Miss Helene Irwin, was the guest of honor lately of a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. M. H. de Young in San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Paye of Kekaha, Kauai, have been guests of the Royal Hawaiian Hotel during the past week. Mrs. A. F. Knudsen is another Kaulian who has made this hostelry her stopping place while in the city during the week.

The exhibit of the Kiloahana Art League which closed last Thursday evening was one of the best and most largely visited exhibits the League has ever given. For ten days it was open to the public and a great many people gave themselves a real pleasure in visiting it.

Among the returning islanders by the Siberia was James P. Sisson, who has been established for several years at Singapore as a civil engineer. He was met at the wharf by his father, Joseph P. Sisson, who came over from Hilo to greet him.

Mr. and Mrs. James Cockburn who have been occupying the rectory of St. Clement's, have taken a cottage on upper Fort street. Rev. and Mrs. Osborne returning by the Siberia went at once to the rectory.

Rev. W. B. Oleson, the first principal of the Kamehameha Schools, with his wife, is expected to arrive by the Alameda on Friday. They come to take part in the celebration of the twentieth anniversary of the opening of the schools. A reception committee from the schools expects to go out to meet the Alameda in a launch on her arrival.

The Princess Kawananakoa is receiving much notice in the newspapers and society papers during her visit in the States. The New York Herald in an account of a performance at the Manhattan Opera House says:

"An interesting spectator was the Royal Hawaiian Princess Kawananakoa, who was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Vos and the latter's daughter, Miss Annie Douglas Graham, who wore a pretty gown of Dresden silk and chiffon.

"The Princess wore a gown of black satin chiffon combined with gold lace, and Mrs. Vos was also in black satin with a scarf of deep rose-colored chiffon."

In a San Francisco paper of a late date the following appears under a New York dateline:

"Princess Kawananakoa of Hawaii is receiving much social attention here. Last Friday night she was one of the notables in the boxes at the Manhattan Opera House, wearing a gown of black satin chiffon combined with gold lace. On another night she and several other ladies who possess titles, among them the Baroness von Ryhiner, president of 'The Californians,' occupied a box at a theater, the press agent of which gave the following description of her to the newspapers: 'Princess Kawananakoa, nee Abigail Campbell, is a very pretty Scotch girl, twenty-four years old, wife of H. R. H. David, next in succession to the late throne of the late King Kalakaua of Hawaii; is heiress to the largest sugar plantations in the whole Sandwich Islands; but she is not a Kanaka.'"

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Adams have taken for one year the Dr. Camp residence at the foot of Pacific Heights.

Among the announcements of the week, none probably was read with interest by a wider circle of friends than that of the marriage of Canon Alexander Mackintosh and Miss Maud E. Witherby. This took place November 7. The following is an account of it written by one who was present:

"The sun came out for a few minutes on a very gloomy day in November last to shine upon a very quiet wedding in the Parish Church of St. Luke, Richmond, Surrey, when Canon Alexander Mackintosh of St. Andrew's cathedral, Honolulu, was united in holy matrimony to Maud Edith, daughter of Mr. J. Witherby of London. The ceremony was performed in a most earnest manner by the vicar, the Rev. Paul M. Chamney, in the presence of a goodly number of the relatives and friends of the bride and bridegroom. Canon and Mrs. Mackintosh, on leaving the church, proceeded at once to Paddington, where they took the Plymouth Express train for Torquay."

Canon and Mrs. Mackintosh were expected back in Honolulu before the end of the year, but it is now possible that they may not return for several months.

In spite of many revolts and many conspiracies against his despotic sway, Ned Greenway has for many years been San Francisco's social arbiter, and he has been a tyrannical one, too. Hence within his realm his birthday affairs have always been looked to as establishing both what is and what will be. It is this fact that gives interest to the following from San Francisco Town Talk regarding it:

"The fact that Ned Greenway celebrated his birthday with a dance instead of hyphenating it with a dinner-dance, as has been his custom, has given the pessimists a handle upon which to hang their prognostications that this is to be a lean winter. There are already about twenty subscription dances in view, but unless a season is plentifully larded with private dinner-dances it is not considered a banner year. I had heard so much about re-trenchment that I fancied the opening ball of the season would show a marked decline in extravagant ball gowns, but I am told that there have never before been so many expensive frocks trailed across a San Francisco ballroom. Mrs. H. M. A. Miller, in a heavy cream satin, embroidered in gold that might have been a drapery in some XVI. century palace, was the most richly ornate figure on the floor. Mrs. Gus Taylor, who is never negligible in matters of dress, is always sure to furnish at least one spangled sensation, but she is at present in mourning for her father-in-law, and so can not arouse the chiffon emotions of society. Later in the season I believe the Taylors will be out, so Mrs. Gus may yet give her friends the pulsating pleasure of seeing a gown that deliberately breaks the laws of the commonplace.

"Of course, all of the debutantes were bidden to the Greenway birthday ball and they looked like a flock of white butterflies whirling round the room. White gowns and moderate décolleté are written in the laws of the Handbook for Debutantes. Several dashing young matrons have adopted the New York style of wearing a bodice as though one were about to step out of it—a mute threat which is fortunately never carried out. But the debutantes are now as discreetly gowned as young French girls and their fluffy white frocks are a splendid foil for the riot of color and warm splash of jewels which the rest of their gender furnish. Mr. Greenway beamed on everyone and seemed delighted that the women had brought out their bravest finery for the occasion. It has always been an unwritten law that one must wear their choicest gown at the first subscription dance, instead of donning it for the affair at which Mr. Greenway is host. I have known girls who wore a hold-over frock to the birthday affair, saving their dazzling gowns for the opening cotillion, but this year there was a concerted action to break away from such illogical tradition and society made a clean start by appearing in brand-new finery at the birthday ball."

Mrs. Judge Lindsay entertained on Thursday and Friday afternoons at tea in honor of Mrs. Young and Miss Young, her mother and sister, who are visiting her from Michigan. On Thursday Mrs. Lindsay was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Clarence H. Cooke, Mrs. William L. Whitney, Mrs. George P. Cooke and Mrs. H. E. Hendrick. Mrs. Walter F. Frear gave some readings, Mrs. Ernest Ross a violin solo, Miss Constance Restarick sang and Mrs. Frank Atherton gave a musical monologue. On Friday afternoon Mrs. Arthur Wilder, Mrs. Berg, Miss Marion Scott and Miss Peck assisted Mrs. Lindsay, while Mrs. Francis Gay sang, Mrs. W. L. Whitney played, and Mrs. F. H. Humphris recited.

Dr. and Mrs. M. E. Grossman, who have been occupying the W. H. Hoogs residence on Makiki street, have rented the Wichman home.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. John Waterhouse last Monday.

Miss Eva Stevens' pupils gave one of their regular recitals yesterday morning at the residence of Mrs. Theodore Richards.

Miss Florence Lee was the hostess of a pedro party given last Saturday evening, at her home on Vineyard street, to a number of her friends. The ladies' first prize was won by Miss Inez Underwood and the gentlemen's first prize was carried off by Mr. Ben Lee, while the consolation prizes went to Miss Thora Oss and Mr. Leslie Branch. After the cards, the company repaired to Englewood, where a dainty supper was enjoyed by all. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Lee, Misses Inez Underwood, May Ferguson, Thora Oss, Carrie Miller, Allen Simpson, Agnes Dunne, Mabel Lee, Cora Lyons, and Messrs. Leslie Branch, Herbert Simpson, Frank Boyer, Lewis Underwood, Jas. Crockett, Chas. Lee, Frank Barrera, Brent.

Bruce Cartwright, Jr., has left the mining districts of Mexico and has re-entered Yale, where he will finish his course in forestry.

Several ladies enjoyed the noon luncheon at the Commercial Club yesterday. The night before, the University Club had ladies to dine according to its monthly custom.

Lady Herron has recently received a cablegram from New Zealand stating that her daughter, Mrs. Vincent Kiteat, will arrive on the Moana, the 11th inst. Rev. and Mrs. Kiteat have been away from the islands for five years, he having charge of a parish in East Katakuna. Mrs. Kiteat's many friends are rejoiced over the news of her visit to the islands and regret that her husband is not to come as well.

The music-loving people have had a treat this past week in Mrs. Ingalls'
